- B. The dog will be trained to perform as shown by demonstration. Included in the training shall be training sessions with the owner. Owner understands and agrees that, should owner fail to cooperate fully in completing the owner training sessions, ACME CANINE cannot and does not assume or accept responsibility for the behavior or performance of the dog after it has been returned to the owner.
- C. If the dog shows evidence of a medical problem while under the care and control of ACME CANINE, ACME CANINE shall have the right to take such measures as deemed necessary, without being liable to owner, for the health and safety of the dog, including the right to administer medication or obtain an evaluation and treatment by a veterinarian of ACME CANINE'S choice. If, in the opinion of ACME CANINE or the veterinarian selected by ACME CANINE, the cost of the treatment will exceed the amount of seventy-five dollars ($75.00), reasonable attempts will be made to contact the owner, and/or the veterinarian designated by owner, above, for further instructions. In the event that the owner or designated veterinarian cannot be contacted, ACME CANINE or the veterinarian selected by ACME CANINE may, without liability to owner, provide such emergency medical treatment as is deemed necessary to preserve the life and health of the dog. ADDITIONAL REQUESTS:

Please ask each member of your family to answer items #1 and #2 below. These lists help us find many of the core issues faster and often point out directions you could be headed toward yet do not realize.

1. Make a list of words your dog seems to know and respond to. This can be anything, nicknames, what you say when you want your dog to go outside for elimination purposes, people names, toy names. Each person should write down any word your dog seems to be 'aware of.' Include sounds if you use any; for example: whistle, finger snapping...
2. Make a list of annoyances from minor to major that your dog causes. This would be anything your dog does to annoy you. There is no wrong answer, and don't presume anything is just a particular "breed trait" or a part of puppyhood to outgrow.
